

The Corey Effect

Discussion Guide

What did you think of Andi's decision to return for the funeral? Would you have made the same one?

So much of the past timeline happens because of a series of bad decisions. What could the characters have done differently? Do you think it would have changed anything?

What did you think of Corey--past and present? In the heat of an argument Andi calls him a martyr. Do you think there's any truth to that statement?

Andi's father, Ryan, is a complicated character, who we only see through other people. Do you think he earned forgiveness from Andi?

Andi's mother is mostly absent throughout the book, and yet is a pivotal character. How did you feel about her keeping the letters? Would you have done the same?

What was your favorite scene in the book? Who was your favorite character?

Andi has great friends in both the past and the present timelines, and yet, she seems very isolated and alone. She shoulders her burdens without their help a lot of the time--especially with Emma and Krystal. Why do you think that is?

How did you feel about the epilogue? Did you like getting a peek into Corey's perspective?

How did you feel about the reveal of Andi's decisions to be a part owner of Scott and Johnson and then take on the role Ryan designed for her and move to Fairford?